Condition for participation: The player must stake using real money in one of the two competing games during the week. No minimum stake required.

The running of the promotion:

4 teams are competing at Circus.be. The player chooses the team of their choice by playing one of the games (4 games per team). In the event that a player plays several games, they will be included in the team associated with the games in which they played the highest amount during the period concerned. During the promotion period, the players collect points for their team by playing one of the two competing games. At the end of the competition period, the team that has collected the most points will share a prize pool of coins.

Each team's points are calculated as following: number of players in each team multiplied by the total amount staked by these players in the period. All divided by 4,000.

Each team's points will be updated daily on the page dedicated to the promotion.

The prize pool of coins up for grabs each week increases depending on the number of points collected by the team each week:
